

Sergey Filonovich

Professor of Management at the State University - Higher School of Economics in Moscow, Dean of its Graduate Management School

Sergei Filonovich is Professor of Management at the State University - Higher School of Economics in Moscow and a Dean of its Graduate Management School (Business School).

Since 1992, Dr. Filonovich has served as a management and organization development consultant to Russian and foreign companies. He has conducted organizational studies, training in communication skills, team-building and management seminars for Siemens, Ernst & Young, Coopers & Lybrand, Occidental Petroleum, Novartis and a number of major Russian companies in oil, gas, telecommunication and other industries. He serves as a member of the Board of the Russian Association for Business Education.

Dr. Filonovich also served as a member of the Board of the Central and East European Management Development Association (CEEMAN).

Dr. Filonovich received his undergraduate degree from Moscow State Pedagogical University in 1974, his Ph.D. from the Department of General and Experimental Physics of Moscow State Pedagogical University and his Doctor of Sciences degree in the History of Science and Technology from the Institute for History of Science and Technology of the Russian Academy of Sciences in 1996..