Research Interests

Professor Lounsbury's research has a general focus on the relationship between organizational and institutional change, technological and entrepreneurial dynamics, and the emergence of new industries and practices. He studies topics such as technology, entrepreneurship and professionalism in varied contexts such as the fields of technology transfer, solid waste, and finance. As a research officer at the Canadian National Institute for Nanotechnology, he is currently investigating the co-evolution of nanoscience and nanotechnology. Professor Lounsbury serves on a number of editorial boards and his work has been published in top tier peer-reviewed journals such as Administrative Science Quarterly, Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Strategic Management Journal, and Organization Studies. In addition, he is the series editor of Research in the Sociology of Organizations published by JAI/Elsevier and co-executive editor of Journal of Management Inquiry published by Sage. At the University of Alberta, he is the Coordinator of the Technology Commercialization Specialization and Director of the Technology Commercialization Centre (TCC).
